

February 2, 2007, 2007-Hallowell: Joel Allumbaugh and Dana Cote, principals of National Worksite Benefit Group (NWBG), are spearheading an effort to form a Maine chapter of the National Association of Health Underwriters (NAHU). The stated mission of NAHU is to "...improve its members' ability to meet the health, financial and retirement security needs of all Americans through education, advocacy and professional development." Further, the vision statement for NAHU is that "Every American will have access to private sector solutions for health, financial and retirement security and the services of insurance professionals." To meet these lofty goals, NAHU advocates on behalf of those who both purchase and sell health benefits.

The CEO of NAHU, Janet Trautwein, will be speaking at the Harraseekit Inn in Freeport on Friday, February 9th. The title of her presentation is "The Future of Health Insurance: The Necessary Steps to Survival". The intent of this luncheon is to gain support for the Maine chapter of NAHU, and to educate insurance professionals. Registration begins at 11:00, and the program will run from 11:30 to 1:00, with lunch provided. Attendance at this event is free. Anyone interested in attending should e-mail Brooke Willson no later than February 7, at bwillson@nahu.org.

More about National Worksite Benefit Group:

NWBG is a national employee benefits agency headquartered in Hallowell, Maine. The mission of NWBG is to serve people and companies by helping them best manage health care expenses and individual risk. NWBG is guided by a set of core values that keep employees focused on honesty and integrity while building long term customer relationships. To learn more, visit them on the web at www.nwbgroup.com, or contact Ed Weber at 207-623-1110, x203, or e-mail ed@nwbgroup.com.